

EU health security framework – Decision 1082 serious cross-border health threat

Preparedness

Article 4 of Decision 1082 aims at ensuring adequate coordination between the Member States to achieve a consistent level of preparedness and interoperability between the existing and future national preparedness plans

Preparedness and response planning is an essential element for effective monitoring, early warning of and combating serious cross-border threats to health. Such planning should include in particular:

IHR core capacities	Intersectorality	Interoperability	EU-wide collaboration

Supporting implementation of core-capacity requirements for surveillance and response (as per Art. 5 and 13 of the IHR)	Addressing intersectoral dimension of preparedness and response planning at Union level	Promoting interoperability of national preparedness plans	Sharing best practice and experience in preparedness and response planning

- Vaccination, joint procurement, AMR, food safety and animal health, pharmaceutical products
- EU Civil Protection Mechanism, European Medical Corps, Disaster Risk Reduction
- Security Union; EU CBRN Action Plan, hybrid threat framework
- EU Joint Framework on countering hybrid threats
- EU Framework Programme for Research and Innovation Horizon 2020
- Bilateral development programmes – IHR and health systems strengthening